Links to More Lists of Organizations

- Consulted for This List
- Many More Deaf Organizations

Can't find the organization or informational resource you need? Try consulting some of the websites listed below to find more. The first section, "Consulted for this List," links to resources that CIPS consulted in starting to develop its own list of deaf organizations. The section "Many More Deaf Organizations" links to many more lists of deaf-related websites, organizations, and other resources.

In addition to the websites listed below, many international deaf and disability organizations have a list of national-level member organizations on their website. Some of these lists provide contact information or links to websites for the national-level members listed. Also, some major, national-level organizations have information about smaller, local-level organizations in their country.

Consulted for This List

The following websites were important resources in gathering information about many of the deaf organizations now included in the World Deaf Information website and file. CIPS consulted these websites in June 2009. All organizations listed in these websites during that time should now be included in the CIPS website. However, the following websites are periodically updated and expanded. It may be worth checking them for new additions or updated information.

World Federation of the Deaf (List of national member organizations)

<http://wfdeaf.org/members.aspx>

Description: WFD acts as a spokes-organization for deaf people around the world. It has more than 130 national-level deaf-run organizations as members. Follow the link to see them listed.

[CIPS consulted this resource June 2009]

MIUSA Organization Database

<http://www.miusa.org/orgsearch>

Description: This on-line database can help you find local, national, regional, and international disabled people's organizations (DPOs) around the world. The database is searchable by region, by country, or by disability. It includes both cross-disability and specific-disability organizations.

[CIPS consulted this resource June 2009]

United Nation Enable's database of disability organizations

<http://www.un.org/disabilities/default.asp?id=739>

Description: The United Nations "Enable" website provides an extensive list of disability organizations around the world.

We Can Do Blog

<http://wecando.wordpress.com>

Description: This blog site posts announcements, news, resources, and toolkits related to disability, poverty, human rights, and international development in developing countries. Consult its blog roll at the very bottom of the page for links to deaf and disability-oriented organizations and other on-line resources around the world.

[CIPS consulted this resource June 2009]

Many More Deaf Organizations

Due to time constraints and other reasons, CIPS has not yet been able to thoroughly explore the following websites. But you should! Many of these link to more deaf organizations, including some that might not yet be included in the World Deaf Information Project.

World Deaf Information Resource Project
An initiative of the Center for International Programs and Services (CIPS) at Gallaudet University

The World Deaf Information Resource Project is an initiative of the Center for International Programs and Services at Gallaudet University. Gallaudet is the only liberal arts university for deaf students in the world. CIPS operates four different programs: the English Language Institute (ELI), which teaches English and American Sign Language to deaf international students; the Global Education and Scholar Services (GESS), which promotes international exchange programs to and from Gallaudet University; the International Outreach program; and International Student Services.
